REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Board of Trustees:

I have the honor to present the report of the year 1938-39, the sixty-fourth session of Wellesley College. It comes to the Board of Trustees in a somewhat new form since it is unaccompanied by the full reports of other administrative officers. It was the hope of the Board that the reduced size of this publication would justify sending it to all members of the Alumnae Association and will perhaps make this pamphlet seem more readable than a larger document, and considerably less expensive.

PERSONNEL OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board suffered severe loss in the death of two of its members. Colonel Hugh Walker Ogden died in England on September 3, 1938. He had been a member of the Board since 1923, a member of the Committee on Conference and of that on Grounds, and of the Pension and Insurance Board of which he was the chairman since 1933.

Mrs. William Hewson Baltzell died in New York on November 3, 1938. She was elected to membership in 1930 and was at once made a member of the Committee on Grounds and on Gifts. She was chairman of the latter from 1934 until the time of her death and acted as vice-chairman of the former for one year. In addition to her Board responsibilities, she was an active member of the Art Museum Committee.

The only new member elected to the Board during the year was Dr. Reginald Fitz. It is with great satisfaction that we welcome this graduate of Harvard College and of Harvard Medical School, where he is now Lecturer in the History of Medicine. He is at the same time Wade Professor of Medicine at Boston University Medical School.

PERSONNEL OF THE FACULTY AND STAFF

Six officers of instruction and administration retired at the end of the year. Josephine Harding Batchelder, Associate Professor of English Composition, retired after thirty-one years of service; Mary Jean Lanier, Professor of Geology and Geography, after twenty-two and a half years; Anna Bertha Miller, Professor of Latin, after twenty-six and a half years; Laetitia Morris Snow, Professor of Botany, after thirty-one years; Antoinette Brigham Putnam Metcalf, Associate and Reference Librarian, after twenty-nine years; and Evelyn Amelia Munroe, Assistant Treasurer, after thirty-three years of service.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Special reference should be made to the resignations of Professor Alice Maria Ottley and Professor Eugene Clarence Howe. Miss Ottley has been a member of the department of Botany since 1904. Her work as Curator of the Herbarium has given it unusual distinction among college herbaria, and her indefatigable effort on behalf of the department and the College merits grateful appreciation.

Professor Howe's sudden illness compelled him to end a Wellesley teaching experience of twenty-seven years. He has been in large part responsible for the research work of the department of Hygiene and Physical Education, and his pioneer work in the physiological implications of physical education has contributed much to the reputation of the graduate work in this field.

With the graduation of the Class of 1939 Miss Robathan's term as Class Dean expires. Carrying an unusually heavy teaching schedule throughout the period of her deanship, Miss Robathan has been most generous and effective in her service to the College.

The Mary Whiton Calkins Professorship was again assigned to Nadia Boulanger, whose presence was a stimulating contribution to the whole College as well as to the department of Music.

Pedro Salinas has been Visiting Professor in the department of Spanish since 1937, when he was the Mary Whiton Calkins Professor. It was a source of satisfaction to all friends of the College when he accepted appointment as Professor.

In September Donald Watson Height became Business Manager. Upon the retirement of Miss Munroe in June, he also became Assistant Treasurer. This double appointment does not imply that even so efficient a man as Mr. Height can fill two full-time positions at once. It indicates, instead, that the business offices are undergoing a gradual reorganization in the direction of simplification and coordination. In this process, as at all other points of his work, Mr. Height has already proved himself to be a valuable addition to the staff.

John Pilley, Visiting Professor of Education, brought to that department the provocative viewpoint of his Oxford background and his considerable experience as Lecturer at the University of Bristol.

ACTIVITIES OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

This entire report is, in effect, a statement of the business which concerned the Board. I should like to classify under this heading only three items.

Financial Condition. Attention should be called to the skill with which the Treasurer and the Finance Committee conserved the resources of the institution and maintained investment income at a time when uncertainty was the chief characteristic of business conditions. The hurricane cost the College $25,000 more than the amount covered by insurance. That this could be absorbed during the current fiscal year without marked curtailment of other services is an indication of the resourcefulness of our financiers in providing for emergencies. In spite of this strong financial position, it has become increasingly evident that more income must be provided to insure continuation of Wellesley's services.

Change in Fees. I quote from the letter sent to the parents or guardians of all students, announcing that resident students in the class of 1943 and thereafter will be charged $1,100 instead of $1,000.

"The forthcoming issue of the Catalogue will show an increase of $50 in the fees charged in 1939-40 and thereafter to resident students who are now enrolled. The fee for non-resident students will continue to be $500.

"The Trustees have been faced with the problem of meeting an ever-increasing cost of service. A college which is not enlarging its services is in danger of stagnation, but the more departments are developed, the more the library is strengthened, the more equipment is improved, the costlier is the operation. With decreased returns on investments it is necessary to secure additional income from student fees.

“An increase of $100 is being charged to new resident students. The Trustees preferred not to ask so large a sum from students who have already started their course. The $50 charged to students in residence in 1938–39 actually represents a very slight increase since its adoption inaugurates a new service to students and the inclusion in the basic fees of the College of the student activity fee and of the diploma fee which are now additional expenses.

“For some time the College has wanted to relieve students and their parents of the annoyance of supplying and laundering linen for rooms in college residences. The increased fees will make it possible to do this, and hereafter sheets, pillow-cases, and bath towels will be supplied and laundered by the College at no additional cost to the student.

“The incorporation of the student activity fee in college fees is in line with the practice in some other colleges. It recognizes the responsibility of the College for financing student organizations which contribute to its total educational program. It simplifies the collection of the subsidy for student organizations. It is not designed to diminish but rather to increase the prestige and responsibility of student-managed groups, which are a very significant part of this community.

“The inclusion of the diploma fee is an effort to simplify the number of fees and relieve the senior year of an extra financial burden.

“In order that no student will be prevented from continuing her course at Wellesley because of this increased charge, it is the intention of the Trustees to increase the amount of scholarship aid.”

While undergraduate fees were being increased, the Board of Trustees accepted the recommendation of the Committee on Graduate Instruction that tuition for graduate students should be decreased from $500 to $300. The report of the Committee says in part that the purposes of this action are:

“1. To lower tuition with a view to making it possible for a larger proportion of students to pay it. . . . A preliminary comparison indicates that Wellesley tuition for graduate students has in general been higher than in other institutions with a comparable offering of graduate work.

"2. To change graduate scholarships from eighteen of equal value (i.e., tuition) to a comparable group of scholarships of somewhat different values. By so doing awards may be made to fit more exactly the considerable differences in ability and promise of candidates.

"3. To attract more able students by granting a few scholarships with a value of tuition plus a small money grant of $100 per year. It is hoped and believed that no additional cost to the College will result, as the outlay should be covered or more than covered by those students receiving half scholarships, or, in other words, by students paying half tuition."

Revision of By-Laws. Another item of business was the revision of the by-laws, a periodic necessity in a vigorous organization. The only conspicuous change was the provision for the reorganization of the office of the Dean. The new article reads:

"There shall be a Dean of Instruction, a Dean of Students, and a Dean of Residence and such other administrative officers as the Trustees shall appoint. Their duties shall be defined by the President, in consultation with the Trustees." (Article II, Section 2.)

The duties of the two new deans were subsequently defined as follows: The Dean of Instruction shall be in charge of those matters of educational policy and administration which relate especially to the faculty. The Dean of Students shall be in charge of those matters of educational policy and administration which relate especially to the students.

The appointment of Ella Keats Whiting, Associate Professor of English Literature, as Dean of Instruction, and Lucy Wilson, Professor of Physics, as Dean of Students, gives the experiment every chance for success. It is the understanding that this form of organization will be tried without commitments of permanence and will be re-evaluated not later than 1942.

ACTIVITIES OF THE ACADEMIC COUNCIL

Listing the accomplishments of the Council will be perhaps the best way to pay tribute to the efficiency of Acting Dean

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Wilson. An interim year is often one of marking time. Under Miss Wilson's leadership a series of important actions were taken. Her report refers to many of them.

Student Records. "The Student Records Committee recommended certain changes in its policy to the Academic Council. These changes as adopted included the raising of the minimum standard required for honor scholars and the inauguration with the class of 1942 of a more liberal interpretation of the requirement of the 'C average' for the degree together with a remission of probation for juniors and seniors." Up to this time a student was required, for example, to compensate for a D in her record by making a B in a subsequent course. The provision as adopted by the Council allows a B in a freshman year to be averaged with a D in the sophomore year. Students will not be admitted to the junior class whose average for the two preceding years is less than C.

Faculty Publications. "The newly appointed Committee on Faculty Publications began its work early in the autumn. An appropriation by the Trustees from the undesignated Alumnae Fund made it possible to enter into negotiations with authors and publishing houses to inaugurate the sponsoring of a Wellesley College Series. For the first books to be thus published, there are also available funds raised by the alumnae in honor of two retired members of the faculty, Miss Sophie C. Hart and Miss Edna V. Moffett. At the time of writing this report, arrangements are nearly completed for the signing of a general contract with one of the leading publishing houses of the country. The Committee has selected three manuscripts the publication of which it desires to sponsor as soon as financial adjustments will permit." The other contracts were later signed so that publication will begin during the coming academic year.

Preparation for Teaching. "During the autumn term the special subcommittee of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction, under the chairmanship of Professor Elizabeth Donnan, prepared its report on The College and the Preparation of Students for Teaching. This report was presented to the Academic Council early in the new year. The offerings of the department of Education for 1939-40 as given in the Catalogue represent the suggestions of the Committee which were adopted by the Academic Council." These offerings reaffirm the interest of the Academic Council in encouraging students to enter teaching as a profession. They recognize the importance of a fifth year of study before a candidate is recognized as ready for recommendation as a teacher, but they also permit an undergraduate introduction to the problems of education. The introduction of a new degree, Master of Arts in Education, is in line with tested practice in well-established institutions. Its requirements include work in Education and in another academic department of the student's choice.

The Council Committee reported that "of all the students who obtained the degree from Wellesley during the years 1929 to 1936, 10.13% became teachers for at least a brief time. The Personnel Bureau, from a study of all the placements made for these years, reports that two to three times as many of our graduates went into other gainful employment as went into teaching." Numerous calls for Wellesley graduates for important educational positions have had to be refused for want of suitable candidates. It seemed to be the hope of the Council that more positive encouragement can be given in the years ahead to re-establishing Wellesley as a college which will supply teachers to public and private schools at home and abroad.

Social Schedule and Calendar Officer. Supplementing last year's work on the social schedule, the Council received the report of a committee which studied the problem of scheduling lectures so that they would not over-crowd the calendar. It was agreed that the administration of the whole social schedule would be simplified if there were an officer empowered to act as chairman of a committee made up of the chairman of the Social Schedule Committee and the Lecture Committee. Miss Clemewell Lay, Director of Publicity, was appointed to fill that office during a period of experimentation to see if a calendar officer is needed. This appointment suggests that under Miss Lay's leadership the office of Director of Publicity is becoming increasingly recognized as an integral part of the administrative work of the College. This is further suggested by the amendment of the by-laws of the Council which reads:

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

“In matters affecting student publications, the Director of College Publicity shall advise the undergraduate boards and shall be specifically empowered (a) to approve or disapprove proposed new student publications, and (b) to advise members of the boards in matters affecting advertising.” (Article XVII, Section 10.)

Fund for Refugees. On the initiative of Professor Helen Sard Hughes, Dean of Graduate Students, the Council sponsored a fund “for the assistance of teachers and scholars dispossessed for racial or political reasons.” A sum of $1,651 was turned over to the college administration, the gift of members of the faculty and staff with the request that it be used in 1939–40 for “(1) Extending invitations to refugee scholars to give lectures (a single lecture or a series); the compensation to include residence for a brief period and a small fee. (2) Extending invitations to refugee women teachers to reside in the College for a period of a few days, weeks, or months, with a view to observing American educational methods; the visitor to be asked to render some academic service while she is here. (3) Extending scholarship aid to well-qualified refugee students, undergraduate and graduate.”

The final request was granted by the Board of Trustees without use of this fund. They authorized the establishment of four full scholarships, covering room and board, to be offered to refugee students during 1939–40 in addition to the regular scholarship awards. Without special appropriations the scholarship committee has made it possible for two students whose families were exiled for racial reasons to stay in college during the year just closed.

In coöperation with five other colleges, the Trustees have authorized bringing a distinguished German professor of philosophy, Dr. Richard Kroner, for a series of lectures.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND STUDENT EARNINGS

One new duty of the Dean has been to act as chairman of the Committee on Scholarships. That this is an appreciable task is suggested by the fact that this Committee awarded undergraduate scholarships amounting to $70,863 to 287 individuals. In addition, the equivalent of $47,967 was awarded to 162 residents in coöperative houses. One hundred of these students also received scholarship aid, so that the total number of undergraduates involved in the two forms of assistance was 349, approximately twenty-two per cent of the total number enrolled.

When graduate and foreign scholarships are included in the total, $17,800 more must be added. Total awards in scholarship and coöperative house awards amounted to $136,630 distributed among 403 students. In November, 1938, there were 1,526 students registered. Therefore, approximately twenty-six per cent received some aid from the College. This does not include the generous amount distributed by the Students' Aid Society to many of the same students and to nineteen others not aided financially by the College directly.

A consideration of freshman awards by a committee of trustees and faculty resulted in the establishment of fifteen Pendleton Scholarships. The following announcement was sent to 454 public and private schools in all parts of the country:

"The Pendleton Scholarships of $600 each have been established to aid students of unusual promise in meeting the expense of a college course. These awards, named in honor of Ellen Fitz Pendleton, President of Wellesley College from 1911 to 1936, are intended for freshmen of outstanding ability and will carry to the holders distinct honor. If the recipient of a Pendleton Scholarship maintains a high record in college both in academic work and in matters of community responsibility, she will continue to receive scholarship aid from the College in the subsequent years of her course. The Pendleton Scholarships, fifteen in number, are of two classes:

"Regional Scholarships, eight in number, will be granted to the applicants for freshman scholarships in the five large geographical regions in the United States who present the most outstanding records from their sections. In assigning these scholarships the College will consider the quality of the students' school records and recommendations, but will also place considerable emphasis on the excellence of the records in college entrance examinations. These scholarships will be distributed according to the following plan: one in New England; one in the Middle Atlantic States; two in the South; two in the Central States; and two in the Far West.

“Seven National Scholarships will constitute a flexible group of awards open to students in any section of the country whose personal and intellectual qualifications are of such a character that they give promise of making a distinctly fine contribution to community living. In choosing the candidates for these awards the College will consider not only the intellectual promise of the candidate but all the available evidence of her interests and activities in school and community.

“To be considered for a Pendleton Scholarship a candidate must meet the requirements for admission to Wellesley College as they are described in the current number of the Catalogue. All candidates for these scholarships are expected to qualify for admission by one of the plans based on college entrance examinations.”

The Personnel Bureau reports that 245 students had term-time employment, earning an average of about twenty dollars during the year. In the exchanges and agencies on the campus fifteen students earned in excess of one hundred dollars and one student earned as much as $233. There are about fifty students engaged in regular jobs as assistants, campus guides, and clerical workers. Thirty-two awards of twenty dollars were made to students who did some kind of regular work for college departments. The comment of the Librarian in reference to her four “coöperative scholarship” holders suggests some of the values of this type of employment:

“While they give very brief hours, to earn a small fee, it is a fine thing to have them. Last year they worked at the circulation desk. This year they have worked in the Catalogue Department, where they have been quite useful, and where the training given them has genuine pre-professional value. Next year four larger coöperative scholarships have been arranged for the library, with each student giving six hours a week for the academic year and receiving in return $150. In the course of years these students will help to educate the Librarian and her assistants in the needs of students. Young, fresh faces at the desk will lend charm to the service. Students will have pleasure in coming to other students for help. Possibly a fine librarian or two will be directed to a satisfying life work, if the plan can be kept up."

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Aid to Refugees. One of the unusual and somewhat dramatic events of the year was the mass meeting convened by the President of College Government to consider Wellesley's share in the relief of suffering caused by racial and political persecution in Germany. Assistant Professor Margaret Ball of the department of Political Science outlined the activity of the Government of the United States in reference to refugees. A resolution was passed in support of the Government policy. Another approved the collecting of funds to be sent by the Service Fund Committee to the Institute of International Education to help in bringing students from Europe. A collection at the Christmas Vesper Service, supplemented by other gifts, made it possible to send $780.

Service Fund. The total amount appropriated by the Service Fund during the year was $10,583. This included $646 for emergency relief in China, $626 for emergency relief in Spain. The largest single item was as usual the $3,700 to Yenching University, Wellesley's "sister college" in China. Thirty-seven agencies at home and abroad were strengthened by the gifts of members of the Wellesley College community.

Gifts from Student Organizations. One of the activities of the College Government officers was the distribution of the large financial reserves which had been accumulated through the years in student organization accounts. One thousand dollars was received from this source for the purchase of new choir gowns. Five hundred dollars was allocated to the furnishing of the room which remains unnamed until inspired students shall christen the alcove in the Alumnae Hall ballroom in which a soda fountain is to be installed during the summer vacation. Twenty-nine hundred and fifty dollars was given to the College for furnishing the large lounge in the Recreation Building in addition to the $1,838 which was received from the Athletic Association for this purpose during the year.

The College has reason to be deeply grateful for these tangible evidences of the loyal generosity of 1939's undergraduates — and of the thrift of their predecessors.

Judiciary Procedure. Some very constructive work was done by College Government officers in the revision of the judiciary system. The new plan is devised to minimize the "criminal" implications of technical violations of social regulations so that the student disciplinary organization can exert more influence on occasions when students can profit by feeling the weight of the adverse public opinion of their contemporaries.

Secretarial Aid in Student Organizations. For the first time in some years College Government functioned without an executive secretary. A part-time clerk was employed to do some of the clerical work. The function of the auditor of student accounts was referred to the Comptroller's office where Miss Decker instituted some excellent reforms in student bookkeeping. Other duties previously performed by the secretary were felt to be more appropriate functions of the office of the Dean of Residence who delegated them to Miss Mary Finch, Assistant to the Head of Tower Court and Assistant in Mrs. Ewing's office. Perhaps it was this experience which led Pembroke College to call Miss Finch away to become its Social Director.

The Board of the Christian Association adopted a plan for conducting their work next year without the help of a secretary while they are considering with college officers the type of help they most need. One group of students, probably small numerically but vigorous in interest, recommends the appointment of a college chaplain. Others would like to have a counselor, trained in religious education, but probably a layman, preferably a woman, perhaps a Y.W.C.A. secretary. This question of the best way to maintain the healthiest possible religious life on the campus is chronic. The chaplain question has risen periodically, I understand. There are a great many people who would be sorry to change the assumption that the religious interests of the College are the concern of all its officers, rather than the professional responsibility of any one of them. As a sincere recommendation of thoughtful students, however, it merits the serious consideration which is planned for next year. Meanwhile the

Board for 1939-40 has decided to experiment for a year without secretarial help except as they may employ clerical assistance.

CHANGES IN PLANT

The summer of 1938 witnessed very practical improvements. Many new water mains were laid, important but unexciting. There was much new plumbing in the Quadrangle, many kitchens were painted, and a new system of ventilating and humidifying the basement of the Art Building was installed. Oakwoods was repartitioned and furnished as a home for fourteen freshmen. Nine new offices were built in Founders Hall. Then came the hurricane. Seventeen hundred and seventy-nine trees fell in a few hours. Almost every building on the campus had minor injuries, and the repairs to buildings and grounds were not altogether complete even at the end of the year. High tribute should be paid, however, to Mr. Height and Mr. Hooper and the men who worked under their direction in recreating a beautiful campus after the ravages of the storm.

The Recreation Building was the major addition to the plant during the year. Miss Ruth Elliott, Director of the Department of Hygiene and Physical Education, had such a large share in planning for this long-desired addition to department equipment that it seems appropriate to use her description of it. I quote from the Catalogue:

“The Recreation Building, containing the George Howe Davenport Swimming Pool . . . is the gift of many donors. Two of them, Mr. and Mrs. Davenport, gave large sums. Students and alumnae gave amounts of all sizes in money and energy to increase the ‘Swimming Pool Fund’ which accumulated for nearly thirty years.

“The thoroughly modern swimming pool, seventy-five by thirty-five feet, is equipped with under-water lighting and is designed for instructional purposes as well as recreational. The building also contains squash courts and a recreation room for badminton and other floor games, and club rooms for use by graduate students in Hygiene and Physical Education as well as undergraduate groups. While the new building is in close proximity to Mary Hemenway Hall, it is independently equipped with dressing rooms and will be used as a separate unit for the department of Hygiene and Physical Education." The architect for the building was William T. Aldrich of Boston, a member since 1930 of the Board of Trustees.

That 3,817 people used the pool in the three months from March 1 to June 20 suggests that it was not built in vain. Since this was entirely recreational, with the exception of small classes in life-saving, it suggests that there will be astonishing attendance figures when instructional work begins in the fall.

The Recreation Building was dedicated during a three-day conference, March 16, 17, and 18. The fiftieth anniversary of the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics was appropriately recognized by a dinner attended by one hundred and twenty-five loyal alumnae. The Eastern Society of Directors of Physical Education for College Women held their annual conference in conjunction with the dedication program. This conference had the largest attendance that the Society has ever had. The dedication dinner, preceding the formal dedicatory ceremony, was held in Shafer Hall with a small group of special guests. The dedication was followed by an address by Eduard C. Lindeman, Professor of Social Philosophy at the New York School of Social Work. Mr. Lindeman spoke on "Education for Leisure in a Democratic Society." The closing event of the celebration was a joint production by the Theatre Workshop and the Dance Groups, directed by Miss Edith Smaill and Miss Charlotte MacEwan respectively. The production represented the coöperative effort of many individuals and demonstrated the willingness of each leader to adapt the program of her group to meet a community need. The officers of Barnswallows were extremely helpful in relinquishing the established date of one of their major productions for the sake of making the dedicatory exercises a success. Other features of the three-day program were panel discussions and athletic demonstrations.

WESTERN TRIP

The dedication of the new building will be indelibly associated in my mind with the trip to the West Coast which began on March 21. The itinerary included Montreal, Kansas City,

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Denver, Pasadena and Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Tacoma, Minneapolis and Saint Paul, Cleveland. Three impressions remain as permanent souvenirs of this trip. First, the incredible cordiality and enduring loyalty of Wellesley alumnae. Second, the surprising amount of interest in the College which they have stimulated in parts of the country which have little or no confidence in the validity of education in anything but a coeducational, preferably a state, university. Third, certain trends in secondary school education must impress anyone who talks with scores of pre-college students in schools, large and small, public and private, north and east and west. (The South awaits another year.) The threat to classical education is well known. It has seemed unfortunate to discover so many young people who never get past the point of thinking of two years of Latin as a minimum college entrance requirement rather than learning something about it as a language of significance in its own right! Another impression must be the almost incredible social efficiency of high school young people. The poise of the presidents of "Girls' Clubs" up and down the land prevents any imminent anxiety about the collapse of civilization. I noted it especially in the very attractive girl who thanked me, in the presence of a thousand or two school mates, for my speech which was now to be followed by someone who "is going to entertain us." A third impression of high school youth is its interest in its own education. The questions which were asked about the College were highly significant, indicating a familiarity with tendencies in education which cannot be ignored by institutions to which these students are going. The college of the immediate future will need to assume a kind of intelligent maturity on the part of its entering students, coupled often with a lack of the academic tools which we have been accustomed to expect. It may necessitate a rethinking of some of the assumptions of freshman methods.

ADMISSION PROBLEMS

The Board of Admission has been concerned with the requests which have come for earlier decision about the award of scholarships to entering students. Several of the men's colleges have made use of examinations offered by the College Entrance Examination Board in April which serve as an objective basis for making awards, subject as they must still be to the completion of a satisfactory preparatory record. It was a source of regret to our Board that with the exception of Radcliffe, the women's colleges with which we conferred did not feel it wise to experiment with this method of spring announcement of tentative scholarship assignments. It seemed important to the members of the Board of Admission, as it did to the Trustees, to work co-operatively with the other women's colleges rather than to adopt a practice which would seem to be competitive. It is our hope that after a few more years of experimentation with April examinations sufficient data will have been collected to justify their adoption by Wellesley and its sister colleges.

That the Board made a fortunate selection of the class which entered in September, 1938, is suggested by the fact that not one freshman withdrew for any reason during the academic year until one was suspended by the Committee on Discipline in June during examination week. Only thirteen of the 434 were dropped for poor work at the end of the year.

HOUSING

The Dean of Residence, Mrs. Mary C. Ewing, reports:

"Our enrollment was unusually large in September and only twelve undergraduates withdrew during the whole year. The number was twenty-five last year and thirty-eight the year before.

"The unexpectedly large enrollment necessitated the opening of an additional residence for freshmen, and since Oakwoods was not occupied, fourteen freshmen were placed there. Meals were provided for them at Olive Davis Hall through Miss Foster's kind hospitality.

"The new plan for rooming students inaugurated in the spring of 1938 seems to have been a great success. Freshmen placed in the three houses of the Tower Court group have been enthusiastic over their houses, and the heads of all three houses feel that the presence of freshmen in the houses has helped to build up pleasant relationships in the whole group. The junior class seems to have been content with its placing since only two requests for changes were made this June. The fact that all juniors continued in the same house for senior year has given stability to the house for both years.

"The house libraries have now entered upon an 'accredited footing' through their incorporation with the library system in the College under Miss McCrum's direct supervision. Several houses have now acquired encyclopedias, and all the houses have enjoyed the distribution of books of current interest under the Nash Fund.

"Beebe and Pomeroy rejoice in new acoustical ceilings and the whole Hazard Quadrangle will have quiet dining rooms by September."

UNUSUAL GIFTS

Perhaps the most unusual gift received during the year was one which had to be refused. Mrs. Baltzell's will included a clause offering her two hundred acre estate to the College. Its distance from the campus, the expense of its maintenance, the condition that it should be kept intact, the consequent drain of college funds which would have been necessitated by its addition to our holdings, combined to make it seem wise to decline the gift. It was with great regret and with great appreciation of her kindness that the Trustees took that action on June 19, 1939.

The Librarian reports two unusual bequests in addition to the other gifts listed in the appendix of this report:

"From the late Mrs. William Hewson Baltzell, a bequest of books on the Fine Arts from her distinguished personal library of rare books and first editions. The collection contains numerous books long out of print and all volumes represent the interest of a connoisseur devoted to the arts. Large folios in fine bindings, with numerous plates and handsome illustrations, are conspicuous in this gift, also of substantial value as a reference library for the study of Art. Included with the gift is a perfect copy of the rare first edition of John Eliot's Bible in the Mohegan tongue, published in Cambridge, 1663, the first Bible printed in America. There are seven hundred and ten volumes in this gift.

"From Mrs. Joseph Cushman, Mrs. Howard Wellwood, and

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Miss Louisa A. Wells, heirs of the estate of Miss Susan Minns, Miss Minns' personal library of more than fifteen hundred volumes containing two fifteenth-century manuscripts, first editions of late nineteenth-century poets, Boston Americana, and several fine sets of books on the history of printing. The gift also included furniture, an oil painting by Johann-Daniel Bager, and various prints representing the work of Dürer, Rembrandt, and van Ostade."

The undesignated gift of the Alumnae Fund amounted to $11,003. From this source a grant of $2,000 was made to the Library for the purchase of expensive sets, definitive editions, and books of interdepartmental interest. A faculty fellowship was awarded to J. Philip Hyatt, Assistant Professor of Biblical History, for study at Johns Hopkins University during the second semester of 1939-40. Grants in aid of research were made to Professors Mary A. Griggs and Ruth Johnstin for the purchase of a Zeiss microphotometer, and to Associate Professor Marianne Thalmann for photostatic copies of material in Austrian archives which are needed for the completion of a book. Reference has already been made to the fund for faculty publications.

The Alumnae Fund also made possible the conducting of several conferences, one on Hispanic-American affairs under the auspices of the departments of Spanish, Art, Music, and History. The principal speaker was Samuel Guy Inman. Another was the conference on recreation held at the time of the dedication of the Recreation Building. Other lectures which were made possible wholly or in part by this gift were those by Vera Micheles Dean, Enrico Fermi, Walter B. Cannon, Paul Popenoe, Sir William Bragg, Henri Seyrig, and Frederick C. Grant. More tangible, but no more valuable, was the appropriation from this gift for the purchase of a curtain for the Alumnae Hall stage and for sound-proof ceilings in Beebe and Pomeroy Halls. Appreciation cannot be expressed too often for the generosity and flexibility of this gift.

THE LIBRARY

One part of the Alumnae Fund gift was devoted to the study of the organization and equipment of the Library. Miss Margaret Mann, who retired from a professorship in Bibliography and Cataloguing at the University of Michigan in June, 1938, spent the month—October 24 to November 22, 1938—studying the internal organization of the College Library. Her recommendations were helpful in establishing the following policies, as reported by Miss Blanche P. McCrum, the Librarian:

“1. A realignment of work on a more functional basis. This means that cataloguers should catalogue all the time, rather than scatter their energies by doing desk work on the side. Expertness, if it ever comes, is the result of specialization. Miss Mann felt we were too much in the tradition of general practitioners.

“2. A sharper division between what is clerical work, to be done with manual skill and precision, and what is professional or semi-professional, calling for language equipment and knowledge of books.

“3. A smarter organization, with less informality, less conversation, and quicker decisions leading to more rapid accomplishment.”

Supplemented by gifts from Miss Margaret H. Jackson, Miss Marjorie Wright, and Miss Gina R. Merola, the Alumnae Fund made possible the purchase of 810 microfilms to complete three books of La Dilettevole Historia del Valorosies which were used as the basis of a thesis prepared by Miss Wright from material in the Plimpton Collection. Two fifteenth-century manuscripts of Boccaccio's Life of Dante were dextrigraphed and sent to Professor Arnolfo Foresti in Milan, Italy. Thus the treasures of the Wellesley College Library enrich scholarship abroad as well as at home.

Miss McCrum further reports the completion of Professor Martha Hale Shackford's edition of Letters from Elizabeth Barrett to B. R. Haydon. She says,

“This is an edition with notes of eighteen letters and three fragments written between 1842 and 1845 by Elizabeth Barrett to B. R. Haydon, the artist. The volume is published by authority of the Trustees, over the imprint of the Oxford University Press. This is the first publication from the seven hundred unpublished letters included in the total number of nine hundred letters of Elizabeth Barrett given to the College in 1930 by Professor George Herbert Palmer. . . .”

Two other items in the Librarian's report suggest the variety of service offered by this important part of the College.

“Our rare book collections have supplied material for important exhibitions this year. One such exhibition, arranged at the suggestion of the Friends of the Library, consisted of sixty-three pieces of incunabula owned by the College. These were annotated and arranged chronologically to show the development of printing during the first century of its existence. Another exhibition, upon which Assistant Professor Vail Motter collaborated with Miss Weed, showed the fine collection of Matthew Arnold items in the Treasure Room. To this exhibition, Professor Chauncey B. Tinker of Yale lent several pieces of peculiar interest.

“Blake's Songs of Innocence, one of the finest known copies, was lent this year to the Blake Exhibition at the Philadelphia Museum of Fine Arts. The Museum proved the earnestness of its desire to exhibit this jewel among books by insuring it for $10,000 for the duration of the loan. In this way, Wellesley was represented in one of the most distinguished exhibitions held in America this year—an exhibition that resulted in a voluminous catalogue which is in itself a monument of scholarship in English Literature.”

ADDITIONAL NEEDS

Some needs are chronic, as permanent as the life of an educational institution. There will always be need for more unrestricted endowment to augment salaries and improve services, including especially scholarship grants. One short year has demonstrated that many of the projects made possible by the Alumnae Fund gift are valuable enough to merit permanent endowment.

Some needs are acute but not vital. The Music department annually hopes for a harpsichord. The Spanish and French departments want a moving picture machine with sound attachment. The Psychology department feels handicapped without adequate equipment for animal experimentation. The Chemistry department has had its enrollment increased by twenty-nine per cent since 1930 and has had an over-taxed staff. The department of Hygiene and Physical Education would like to own the canoes and the canoe house which now occupies college property but is not under college control. The department of Art is eager to have a full-time librarian. Language departments, the Art department, the History department, and probably many others long for smaller sections in order to do their best teaching.

Some needs are acute and are rapidly becoming vital.

Infirmary. The report of the College Physician includes these paragraphs:

“In September we had several cases of broncho-pneumonia which gave histories of direct contact to the disease at home. Due to the prevalence of la grippe we had to put up extra beds in all available places, including the corridor. For some time our eighteen-bed infirmary was caring for twenty-seven patients, which is about the limit it can accommodate. With this number of patients not only the beds became a question, but also how to handle the increased number of diets, dishes, trays, etc. We have had to have both extra nurse and maid service.

Year	Number of Patients	Daily Average Number of Patients	Average Days per Patient
1925-35 (average).....	452	8.2	4.5
1935-36.....	500	8.03	4.5
1936-37.....	551	8.1	3.9
1937-38.....	598	9.1	3.07
1938-39.....	678	12.	4.5

“Naturally the first question which comes to one's mind is, ‘What has caused this increase?’ To reply to this question one must consider several factors. Are the facilities at the infirmary being used more? Some feel that fewer of the college community are going to outside physicians and instead are availing themselves of the services of the Medical department. Are the students more fatigued by the increased pressure of academic work and the more complicated social life, thereby lowering their resistance to infection? Or is the increase due simply to the prevalence of disease? During the last two years, and especially the present one, the whole country has had a large proportion of upper respiratory infections. Probably the increase is due to a combination of the above-mentioned possibilities."

The Committee on Endowment has listed the infirmary as the number one building need.

Art Building. Almost as immediate is the need for relieving congestion in the Art Building. The chairman of the Art department reports that in one popular studio course, "We have reached the maximum number (thirty-two) which we can accommodate in our cramped quarters in two divisions, and I have had to notify the Dean of Freshmen and the College Recorder that we shall have to close the course to freshmen who, until now, were admitted by special permission." In reference to Miss Agnes Abbot's course in "Studies in Medieval Art" she says, "One of the small rooms in the basement was turned into a workshop where the students ground colors, mixed them with egg for tempera work, and broke the glass cubes for the wall mosaics. Studies in fresco had been undertaken before, but this was the first time that any project as ambitious and complicated as that of wall mosaics, made according to the methods of ancient masters, was attempted. We were surprised by the success of the enterprise and we were sorry that lack of wall space forced us to destroy some of the completed work to provide room for new studies. We are even more sorry that most of the surviving examples of fresco and mosaics will have to be destroyed next year when the course will be given again." With the optimism born of long endured inconvenience in an overcrowded building, she adds for the department that "it will be our duty, and pleasure, to study very carefully the type of building which would serve our needs best and most economically, so as to be fully ready when the time comes."

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Library. The third crying need is described in these words of Miss McCrum:

“The question of the building has been studied on the ground by two librarians, each of whom has conducted a successful building program for his own institution. These two specialists are Mr. Donald B. Gilchrist, Librarian of the University of Rochester, and Mr. Nathaniel L. Goodrich, Librarian of the much praised library of Dartmouth College. Each investigator spent two days in this library, making notes, studying floor plans, interviewing members of the staff. Each made entirely independent recommendations, and in the case of Mr. Gilchrist, two sketches were included. These reports were considered on March 18, 1939, by the Library Council in joint session with the Library Building Committee. The unanimous vote of those present was to recommend to the Trustees the erection of an entirely new building. Such a step was considered necessary because the unadaptable plan of the present building precludes the development of a central stack, unified service, cubicles, faculty studies, and conference rooms. All of these are necessary in a building dedicated to effective use in connection with instruction.

“A possibility that needs study in this connection is the location of the new building where Norumbega Hall now stands. If the library of the future may be so placed, one ideal of college library builders could be attained immediately, namely that of adjacency to classrooms and faculty and administrative offices. In this particular case, centralization could be extended through the use of passage-ways, either above or below ground, to four important departmental libraries: Art, Chemistry, Physics, Psychology. The attainment of such centralization seems to the present writer worth the hampering effect of a somewhat protracted wait in the present building. In the meantime, the Library Building Committee is at work on plans for the new library when funds are available for building it. The Committee believes that no sketches or drawings should be made until a statement in words has set forth the aims, purposes, and requirements of a building planned to meet the educational requirements of this College.”

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

As I look out of the window to the beauty of this campus, it strikes me that many people must consider it absurd for Wellesley to want anything more in the line of physical equipment. Suffice it to say that the only reason we ask for it is that we want to offer the greatest possible opportunity to our most valuable asset, the personnel of the College. It has been the people of Wellesley who have distinguished it regardless of their tools. So it will ever be.

Respectfully submitted,

MILDRED H. MCAFEE,
President.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER
1938-1939

To the Trustees of Wellesley College:

I submit the following report of the financial operation of the college for the year ended June 30, 1939.

JAMES DEAN,
Treasurer.

To the Board of Trustees:

In reviewing the past year two peaks rise above the level plain of ordinary operations. The hurricane of September 21, 1938 caused serious damage to buildings and grounds. The dedication in March of the Recreation Building marked the consummation of hope deferred and effort extended over a period of thirty years.

Plant. The Recreation Building with the George Howe Davenport swimming pool, designed for purposes of instruction as well as recreation, is a valuable addition to the college plant, and an eloquent witness to the generous interest of Mr. and Mrs. Davenport. Although numerous, gifts for the building were inadequate to cover the cost, until the College added $200,000 to the contributions already received in order to complete two units of the proposed three unit building. Minor improvements through the year include a ten inch water main from Homestead to Tower Court (with branching lines) which offers better protection in case of fire. This installation immediately reduced substantially the cost of fire insurance. The yearly work on replacing the plumbing in the Hazard Quadrangle saw that task completed in Cazenove. Such repairs have already been finished in Pomeroy and so much done in Beebe and Shafer that another year may mark the end of this costly restoration.

In contrast to these constructive items came the destruction caused by the hurricane. Almost every building suffered. Fortunately this damage of $15,107 was covered by insurance. There was, however, no indemnity for the extensive damage to trees and grounds which added to the budget the wholly unforeseen expense of $25,513.

Funds and Investments. Additions through the year to the principal of funds amounted to $262,091. Of this sum $180,072 came from legacies and gifts; while the balance came from income added to the principal of accumulating funds, and from the annual appropriation to the Reserve for Depreciation. Through the Alumnae Fund, in addition to $10,860 for specified purposes, the Alumnae Association again made an unrestricted gift—$11,003 to be used for whatever the College may deem desirable. In spite of additions, however, there was a decrease in the total principal of funds of $74,509 arising from three sources, expenditures for the Recreation Building and equipment, extraordinary repairs chargeable to the Reserve Fund for Depreciation, and some loss on securities sold or redeemed.

TREASURER'S REPORT

Income and Expenditures. Gross income appropriated for current expenditures during the year, with a comparison for two previous years, was as follows:

	1938-39		1937-38		1936-37
	Percentage of Total		Percentage of Total		Percentage of Total
Students	$1,367,506	74.5	$1,345,316	74.0	74.4
Investments *	340,999	18.5	333,374	18.3	18.5
Miscellaneous	127,295	7.0	139,273	7.7	7.1
Total	$1,835,800	100.0	$1,817,963	100.0	100.0

It is interesting to note how little variation there is year by year in the percentage of the three classes of income. It is also interesting to find that in the appropriation of gross income less than 1½ per cent came from gifts. The yield of income from investments, based on the average book values of securities, was at the rate of 3.83 per cent. Although gross income increased by $17,837, gross expenditures increased by $20,829, the largest item being the care of the grounds because of the hurricane. This unusual expenditure, however, was balanced by savings at other points so that the operations for the year show a surplus of $2,844. Although small, any surplus in these uncertain times is in itself cause for gratitude to all who are interested in Wellesley College.

Respectfully submitted,

EVELYN A. MUNROE,
Assistant Treasurer.

* For total investments income for the year, see page 79.

REPORT OF AUDITORS

We have audited the books of the College for the year ended June 30, 1939 and found them to be correct. The securities representing the investment of the Trust Funds were inspected by us or otherwise satisfactorily accounted for. We report that the foregoing balance sheet and the statements annexed are in accordance with the books and that, in our opinion, subject to the provisions of the attached report, they show the true state of the financial affairs of the College at June 30, 1939 and the results of the year ended that date.
